

C&I Electronics & OneMain Financial:

National consumer finance company advances efficiency and sustainability through recycling and reuse

Key Metrics

400

26,000

Pounds of Lexmark

330

Electronics landfilled

The Challenge

OneMain Financial, a national consumer finance company with over 1,400 locations in 44 states, needed to streamline the process of replacing and recycling 400 printers from Hawaii to New York. The objective was to eliminate the need for their employees to handle and ship each used printer to a centralized OneMain location where it would be handled again before being recycled.

The Solution

C&I created a hands off "return package program" specifically for OneMain to seamlessly ship and recycle each printer and provide them with the sustainability reporting needed to achieve their ESG initiatives.

The Results

C&I provided flat fee pricing and coordinated the pick ups for each location. As a R2v3 certified company, C&I gives companies confidence that all sensitive data is destroyed, any electronics with residual value will be reused, and that their assets won't end up in a landfill or in a dumping ground halfway around the world. OneMain was extremely satisfied with the results and has contracted with C&I to handle their upcoming IT Branch Upgrade Project in all 1,400 locations consisting of 8,500 PC's, 16,000 monitors and 3,000 security cameras.

